

Line Alignment - "Single/Double"

Primary "Go To" Player: #2 Shooter

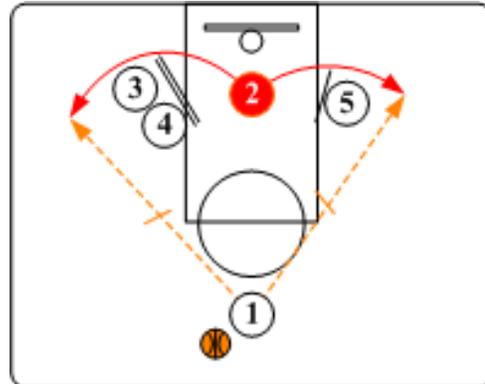

Secondary "Go To" Player: #3 Small Forward

Single/Double is design to free up a shooter by running them off a series of baseline screens. Since the initial attack is down the middle, it attacks both sides of the defense simultaneously making defensive help nearly impossible. It is a particularly effective play against either a man to man or zone defense.

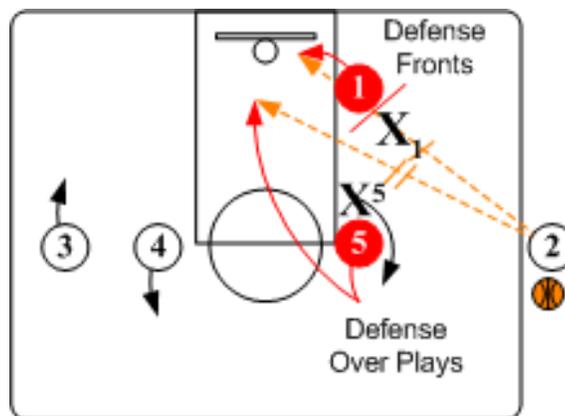

Right Side Entry

Down Screen. O5 sets a down screen for O1 while O3 and O4 set a double screen on weakside. Shooter O2 inbounds the ball to O1 and cuts under the basket. O1 takes ball to middle on dribble. Note: if the defense switches on the initial down screen, O2 can inbound the ball directly to O5 posting up.

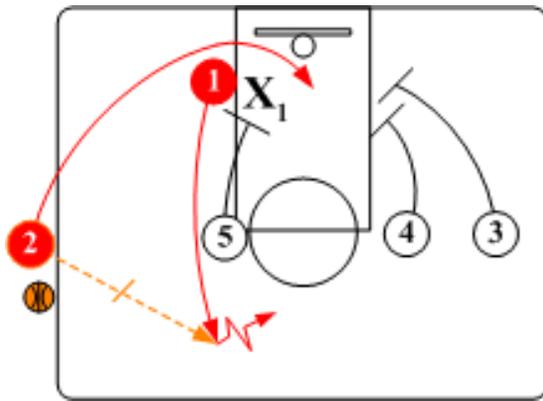

Single Double Option: After cutting to the basket shooter O2 then has option of returning off O5's single base screen or continuing out off O3's and O4's double screen. O3 goes opposite of O2. If O2 cuts over O3's and O4's double screen, then O3 goes off O5's base screen. If O2 doubles back off O5's screen, then O3 pops out off of O4's screen.

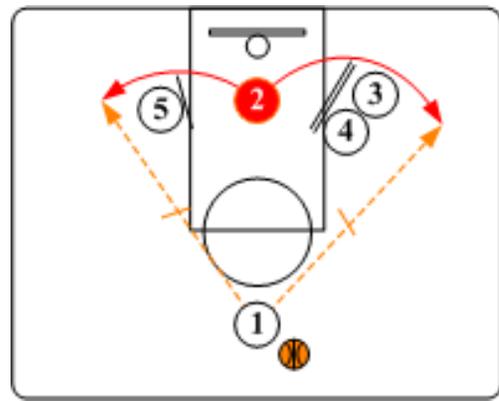

Automatic Lob Option: Anytime the defense fronts O1 or O5, O2 looks to execute a quick lob pass.

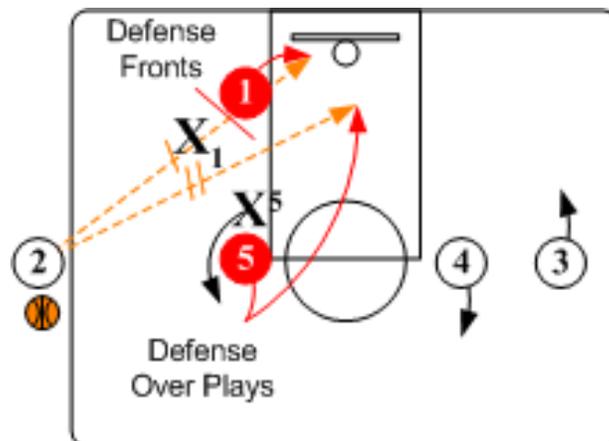

Left Side Entry

Down Screen. O5 sets a down screen for O1 while O3 and O4 set a double screen on weakside. Shooter O2 inbounds the ball to O1 and cuts under the basket. O1 takes ball to middle on dribble. Note: if the defense switches on the initial down screen, O2 can inbound the ball directly to O5 posting up.

Single Double Option: After cutting to the basket shooter O2 then has option of returning off O5's single base screen or continuing out off O3's and O4's double screen. O3 goes opposite of O2. If O2 cuts over O3's and O4's double screen, then O3 goes off O5's base screen. If O2 doubles back off O5's screen, then O3 pops out off of O4's screen.

Automatic Lob Option: Anytime the defense fronts O1 or O5, O2 looks to execute a quick lob pass.